TEN BOOKS Wordless

"Journey"
By Aaron Becker
J-ER BEC

A lonely girl draws her way into a fantastic journey. She encounters some problems, but in the end manages to escape as well as make a new friend.

"Float"
By Daniel Miyares
J-ER MIY

On a rainy day a young boy makes a boat out of newspaper. When he brings it outside and sets it afloat it moves too quickly and he has to chase it.

"Flashlight"
By Lizi Boyd
J-ER BOY

A child highlights the world around, exploring the woods. The animals get ahold of the flashlight and the tables are turned though.

"Hunters of the Great Forest"
By Dennis Nolan
J-ER NOL

A band of tiny hunters sets out from their tiny town. They almost become prey for a bluebird and a chipmunk, but manage to escape and make it home.

"Draw!"
By Raul Colon
J-ER COL

A boy is alone in his room but has a sketchbook and art supplies on hand. With those and his imagination he takes a journey on an African safari.

"Bluebird"
By Rob Staake
J-ER STA

A boy makes an unlikely friend in a bluebird. The bluebird follows him everywhere but when it is injured the little boy must figure out what to do.

"Flora and the Flamingo"
By Molly Idle
J-ER IDL

An unlikely partnership forms between a little girl and a flamingo. Although they don't seem to get along at first, their dancing grows to be in tune with their friendship.

"Chalk"
By Bill Thomson
J-ER THO

Three children find a bag of magical chalk on the playground that allows them to actually create whatever they draw. When they bring a dinosaur to life, however, they have to save themselves.

"Wave"
By Suzy Lee
J-ER LEE

A little girl plays on the beach and develops a comical friendship with an ocean wave. She becomes continually joyful as the dynamic plays back and forth. Leaving the beach does not mean goodbye.

"Sector 7"
By David Wiesner
J-ER WIE

A foggy field trip turns into a journey through the clouds. The ride culminates at Sector 7 where clouds are living things, but the testers there are not so keen on a child being showing up.
