

Nevins Memorial Library

Growing Community

TEN GRAPHIC NOVELS

Now I Can Read!

"Otto's Backwards Day"

By Frank Cammuso
J-GRAPHIC CAM

Otto's birthday cake and presents are stolen the day before his party. It takes venturing into Backwards Land to get his gifts back to discover that family and friends being there is the best present.

"The Shark King"

By R. Kikuo Johnson
J-GRAPHIC JOH

Nanaue's father is the Shark King and his mom is a regular human. Trying to balance the two sides of him is very difficult for the child and he has to learn what is right.

"Benjamin Bear in Fuzzy Thinking"

By Philippe Coudray
J-GRAPHIC COU

This set of silly vignettes feature a bear named Benjamin. Each page is done in the style of newspaper cartoons done at a reading level suitable for beginning readers.

"Nina in That Makes Me Mad"

By Hillary Knight
J-GRAPHIC KNI

This story illustrates the various situations which can be frustrating for both parent and child alike. Nina narrates her anger and concludes that it makes her feel better after she can talk about being mad.

"The Princess and the Frog"

By Will Eisner
J-GRAPHIC EIS

This graphic novel retelling of the classic Grimm Brothers' fairy tale is perfect for a read aloud. If your child loves knights, dragons, and fairy tales, find out if the frog turns back into a prince.

"The Big Wet Balloon"

By Liniers
J-GRAPHIC LIN

On a rainy Saturday, Matilda shows her little sister Clemmie the joys of splashing around outside even when the weather is not so nice. The sisters bond over their fun day.

"Benny and Penny in Lights Out"

By Geoffrey Hayes
J-GRAPHIC HAY

Benny can't find the moon and thinks that someone took it! Penny just wants to read a story, but Benny has to go off into the dark adventuring.

"Mo and Jo"

By Dean Haspiel & Jay Lynch
J-GRAPHIC LYN

Mona and Joey inherit the costume of the superhero, Mighty Mojo. Their mom turns it into two after they rip it apart fighting and they have to team up

"Patrick in Teddy Bear's Picnic"

By Geoffrey Hayes
J-GRAPHIC HAY

Geoffrey Hayes' adorable characters are at it again. Patrick the mouse goes on a picnic with his mom, resists naptime, and learns how to deal with a bully.

"Shark in the Library!"

By Cari Meister
J-GRAPHIC MEI

During library class at school Noah knows that the stuffed shark is somewhere, but he just can't find it! See if Noah can locate it before class is over.